2019 Summer Treatment Program Elementary Teacher Positions

The Center for Children and Families at Florida International University announces Summer Treatment Program positions for elementary-level regular and special education teachers, and for elementary-level art teachers for 2019. The Summer Treatment Program (STP) provides services to children with Attention-Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Conduct Disorder, Oppositional-Defiant Disorder, learning problems, and related behavior problems. The program provides treatment tailored to children's individual behavioral and learning difficulties. The Center for Children and Families is directed by William E. Pelham, Jr., Ph.D., who is a Distinguished Professor of Psychology and Psychiatry at Florida International University. Erika Coles, Ph.D., is the Program Director for the STP-E.

The dates of employment for the Elementary Teacher position are Monday, June 10, 2019 through Saturday, August 10, 2019. Elementary Teacher hours of employment are 7:30 AM – 5:30 PM, Monday through Friday, and on Saturday, August 10, with additional meetings with parents and staff as necessary. The salary for this position is $7500 for the summer.

During the program, children are assigned to groups that remain constant for the duration of the program. Each academic teacher works with 2-3 groups, and art teachers work with all age groups in the STP-E. Each group consists of 10 to 15 children of similar age. Teachers implement an extensive behavior modification treatment program during classroom activities. The program includes feedback and associated consequences for work productivity and classroom behavior, daily and weekly rewards for appropriate behavior, social praise and attention, appropriate commands, and age-appropriate removal from positive reinforcement. Teachers will also be responsible for recording, tracking, and entering daily records of children's classroom behavior and performance. Each teacher will supervise a classroom aide who will assist with classroom management and recordkeeping. Teachers will work under the supervision of experienced staff members and will receive regular feedback about their performance.

In the STP-E, children participate in two daily academic periods. Children complete assignments in typical age-appropriate subjects such as arithmetic, reading, and language arts. The classroom activities focus on improving children's on-task behavior, following teacher directives, and exhibiting appropriate classroom behavior, in addition to providing practice at the children's current grade level to avoid summer learning loss. Teachers are responsible for determining children's appropriate work levels by reviewing previous records and by providing preliminary work during the first week of the program. Each week, teachers review children's performance and make adjustments to maintain a challenging level for each child throughout the summer. Children may also work on a variety of other assignments such as small-group instruction, peer-tutoring activities, or computer-aided instruction. In addition to the treatment provided in the program, some research is conducted, and teachers are required to follow research protocols that are being implemented in the classroom settings.

Art teachers are responsible for planning daily art projects for the children in the STP-E program. Projects should be age-appropriate for children ages 6-12 and should be engaging as well as instructive. Teachers should plan for approximately 45 minutes of project time each day.

Prior to the start of employment, Elementary Teachers will be required to read the applicable treatment program manual and to be extensively familiar with the behavior modification program and rules and procedures for daily classroom activities. Teachers will be required to memorize, verbatim, the operational definitions for the behavior modification system categories and other related information. Teachers will need to spend a significant amount of time preparing prior to the start of employment.

During the first week of employment, Elementary Teachers will participate in a variety of training activities. Training will consist of lectures, slide and video presentations, testing, and daily active role-plays during which staff members will act as Teachers, Aides and children during classroom activities and time out. On the last day of employment, Teachers will complete rating scales regarding progress children made in the program and children's response to treatment. In addition, Teachers will prepare and summarize information to be included in children's final treatment reports.

The Summer Treatment Program has been conducted at Florida State University from 1980 to 1986; at Western Psychiatric Institute and Clinic from 1987 to 1996; at the University at Buffalo from 1997 to 2009; and at Florida International University since 2010. The STP was named as a Model Program for Service Delivery for Child and Family Mental Health by the Section on Clinical Child Psychology and Division of Child, Youth, and Family Services of the American Psychological Association. The STP has also been used in clinical trials conducted under the auspices of the National Institute of Mental Health and SAMHSA, and has been named a program of the year by CHADD, the national parent advocacy group for children with ADHD.

The required qualifications for the Teachers are as follows: a Bachelor's or higher in Education/Special Education, Psychology/Mental Health, social work, or related fields. Current teacher certification is required.

Additionally, participation in the STP requires staff to ensure the safety, well-being and treatment of children and adolescents with mental health, learning, attention and behavior problems. Teachers must be able to visually scan the environment, effectively attend to and hear verbal exchanges between children, provide neutral, corrective feedback on children's misbehavior (which can include aggression), and provide a consistent, warm, positive climate for children.

All finalists must clear a Criminal Background Check initiated by the Division of Human Resources at FIU before an offer of employment will be made. All finalists must be digitally fingerprinted and cleared by the FIU Division of Human Resource before beginning assignment.

Employees placed on Temporary Appointments are not eligible to participate in employee benefit programs (i.e., paid leave, health insurances, etc.) but are enrolled in the FICA Alternative plan.

Florida International University is a member of the State University System of Florida and is an Equal Opportunity, Equal Access Affirmative Action Employer.

Applications for STP positions will be accepted beginning in October, 2018. Applicants are required to complete an online application form and to submit 3 letters of recommendation and an official transcript. There is no cutoff date for applying. Applications received after all positions have been filled will be placed on a waiting list. Positions are competitive so interested individuals should apply as soon as possible.
